

"Y NOT," SHE MEOWED

The Skye is Falling Mystery

Featuring: Dele Mustache

Robby S. Witt

PRESS KIT

"Y NOT," SHE MEOWED

BY ROBBY S. WITT

Agent: Diane Poteet

512-297-6503

drpoteet12@gmail.com

Twinauthors.com

Table of Contents

Why Should "Y Not," She Meowed Be Read?

Contact Info

Robby's Bio

"Y NOT," SHE MEOWED Book Cover

Publishing Information

Brief Synopsis

Promotional Materials

Interview Resources/Question and Answers

Media Reactions

Press Release

Book Excerpts

Notes

Dele Moustache Logo

Artemis and Animal Logo

Why Should "Y Not," She Meowed Be Read?

There are many reasons.

Besides being a well-written and entertaining science fiction story, "Y Not," She Meowed is an important Indie book because it tells the story of an all-woman world, which will be loved by both straight and gay women (though some men and young adults would love it, too). In this time of our lives, with events like The Million Woman March and women running for top political seats, a story like "Y Not," She Meowed is exactly what women want to read.

"Y Not," She Meowed is also a different kind of science fiction book. It has new technology that no one else has come up with before. Much of the technology is animal-based, which animal-lovers will go crazy about. There are gadgets, robots, and spaceships that will peak the reader's interest and fuel their imagination.

"Y Not," She Meowed has a whole world of unusual characters. The woman characters are divided between more masculine ones and more feminine ones, giving a positive and realistic view of the gay world. I believe people can relate to these characters better than they would to a made-up world where everyone is beautiful and feminine. The all-female crew on the Mariposa spaceship also includes lots of interesting and new aliens that have amusing animal characteristics and names.

"Y Not," She Meowed has lots of unusual animals that will charm the reader and leave them asking for more. Robby S. Witt has cleverly let the humans think they have saved the day when trouble emerges. But in every case, the animals, unknowingly to the humans, have saved the day instead. You will be laughing so hard, you will be crying at the same time. I know I was.

Contact Info

Robby Robinson
(pen name Robby S. Witt)
wilddogriver@yahoo.com

Agent: Diane Poteet
drpoteet12@gmail.com
(512) 297-6503

Twinauthors.com

Facebook Authortwins
(<https://www.facebook.com/authortwins/>)

Twitter Diane Poteet @ RanchDressing2
(<https://twitter.com/RanchDressing2>)

Goggle+ Diane Poteet
(<https://plus.google.com/u/0/100610825855773299131>)

Bio

Robby S. Witt has degrees in Anthropology, Medical Technology, and Photography, and has now added writing to her many achievements. Witt has lived in several great cities like Austin, Texas, and Seattle, Washington while pursuing her career of saving lives as a Medical Technologist. She has seven magnificent animals - four cats and three dogs. Her imagination and humor are fueled by the every-day things in her life. She has a unique perspective that makes great writing!

Robby goes on at least two walks a day with her three BFFs, usually in a woodsy place. Her favorite TV shows are Xena, Ellen, Miranda Hart, Rosemary and Thyme, and other British shows. She loves anything British and hopes to visit there one day.

Robby has owned dogs and cats all her life and almost all have lived long lives. Robby played soccer for the University of Texas Women's Intramural team and with her twin sister, Diane, in the Austin Women's Soccer League.

"Y NOT," SHE MEOWED

The Skye is Falling Mystery

Featuring: Dele Mustache

Robby S. Witt

Publishing Information

"Y Not," She Meowed by Robby S. Witt

- Self-published on January 9, 2017 as ebook
- Self-published on February 20, 2017 as paperback
- Available at Amazon
(https://www.amazon.com/Not-She-Meowed-Fallig-Mystery/dp/1520352867/ref=la\_B06XBZVHQB\_1\_1?s=books&ie=UTF8&qid=1494676896&sr=1-1A)
- Paperbacks available in Austin, Texas, at Book Woman and Half Price Books on North Lamar
- ISBN-13: 978-1520352862 (paperback)
- $12.99 for Paperback/530 page
- $9.99 for ebook /364 pages
- Science Fiction with mystery and romance

Brief Synopsis

"Y Not," She Meowed: "The Skye is Falling Mystery" is the first book of a science fiction series written about strong women characters with humor and romance added in. It is a new universe run by women and full of interesting characters, technology and gadgets.

Enter a world where men have accidentally killed themselves off with a little help from a cat named Dele Moustache. The world is now a goddess-based society and Artemis, the protector of animals and women, is at the center. Even the fantastic technology is animal-based. Earth women join the District of PAW, or Peace for All Women, to make the seventh-all-female solar system member.

It is Dele Mustache's job to follow the wearer of the Artemis pendant through generation after generation. First, Luna Good finds the necklace, and then her granddaughter, Skye Good-Night inherits it. Skye follows her fa-ma, Elysium Good-Night, into the District of PAW's Warrior Women space forces. Unfortunately, Skye Good-Night is accused of murder (but never convicted), demoted, and sent to command a science spaceship dispatched to save animals and plants. The personnel on the ship, some alien and some human, all have animal attributes and unusual pets. For example, there is an alien woman from a cat planet that looks like a woman, but only she can see her cat-shadow. Or a woman who is has fire-fly attributes and has to wear mittens, so as not to electrocute anyone. Captain Good-Night must clear her name and save the tri-horn horses on a dying planet, but strange things keep happening, including murder. In every case, the humans think they have saved the day, but it is the animals that do every time.

Promotional Materials

Imaginative! Great all woman world! Cool gadgets! Funny and creative! Great characters and unusual animals! Science Fiction has never been done so well!

GOOD READS: Ad ran in Chronicle, Curve/on line, and The UT at Austin Travesty with Radio spots.

Postcard campaigns in Austin: downtown, Burnet Road, South Congress, and The Blue Cat Café.

Bookstores: Book Woman and Half Price Books on North Lamar, Austin, Texas.

Internet: Robby's blog on Twinauthors.com/sign up, posts on Tweeter and Facebook, and Kindle Reviews/Five Stars.

Other: Tee-shirts (any style or color), handmade wooden pendants by Diane Poteet for necklaces and fobs, and bookmarks with Dele Moustache an front and blogs on back.

Discounts for quantities and freebies provided.

Interview Resources/Questions and Answers

What makes your book different and why should we read it?

My book, "Y Not, She Meowed," is different because it is about an all new lesbian universe. There is mystery, adventure, love, and lots of characters to keep everyone interested. Animals play a large role in moving the story along. If you love women and animals, you'll love my book!

What traits and other tidbits do you share with your main character?

My main character is Skye Good-Night. I actually identify more with her best friend, Buddy Beauceron who represents the iconic Dog - trustworthy and loyal. Buddy is Skye's truest friend and she is there whenever Skye needs her. I am more a Dr. Watson than Sherlock Holmes. Skye is the latter. Skye reminds me of certain individuals I have known in my life who have a way of processing information that reaches beyond others. I always thought they would make good detectives.

Did any of your inspiration for this book originate in your real life experiences?

Even though it is set in the future, I have written what I know and combined it with what I dream about. I am a scientist. I love mysteries and sci-fi. For example, some of the hospitals I have worked for use a device on the wall that you wave at and it opens the door. I took that a step further in my book. On board the space ship, Mariposa Spirit, I have sentient finger-like projections or tentacles above all doors that the characters wave at to make the doors open. The tentacles do more than open the doors; they always put on a fanciful display of some kind as the person walks through.

Are there any specific authors whose writing styles or subject matter inspired your book?

Yes, I would point to Erle Stanley Garner, author of Perry Mason, for one. I like the way his books are full of action. He is a genius at mystery plots, too. His plots are very detailed and laboriously planned out. I try to do my best in that area. Basically, I have set up a make-believe world, in which I can have murder mysteries. I am also a big fan of Agatha Christie and M. C. Beaton. I have watched on TV and read many books by British authors who are the best at that genre. I aim to give the reader a good mystery, as well as a fun time. Kate Sweeny is a humorist and lesbian author who I admire. She has a talent of infusing some really funny moments in her stories. I have added my own spin of humor to my work. Life, and fiction, should not be taken too seriously.

Do you have any projects in the works? If so, what is it?

I plan to continue writing the series of "Y Not, She Meowed." My next book is about the crew of the pet-friendly ship, Mariposa Spirit, rescuing the Drumming Lilly plants while a headdress fashion show is taking place. The main plot features a murder mystery with secondary plots of adventure and love intertwined. Dele Mustache, a cat, and other pets/animals aboard ship are there to aid the humans in solving their problems. The humans do not always realize that they are being helped. I am also interested in finishing three children stories I am working on. I have a few short stories that I will be posting on my blog on Twinauthors.com. I would like to write a mystery dedicated to Erle Stanley Garner where I have a lawyer be the main sleuth; however, I may have him be a woman who becomes a man, a female to male. He would be someone who has to keep his secret while living a normal life and fighting crime. I would also love to write a few lesbian love stories. I work full-time so my writing progress is slow but steady. My sister and I both blog about every two weeks. It's great fun, take a look! My sister, D.E. Poteet, wrote her book, One Bark for Murder, at the same time that I did.

You and your twin are both authors. Did you plan it that way?

We have always been creating stories. We were very close when we were growing up and acted out a slew of make believe stories. It was just a matter of time before we would write them down. She was writing her novel, which inspired me to do the same. We finished about the same time and published them on the same day. We are identical twins after all. Some of our brain pathways are very similar. Our personalities are opposites, but we still understand one another like no one else can.

When you self-published, did you do it all yourself?

Yes, we did. We each did our own book, but helped the other if something did not make sense. It was definitely a learning experience! I designed my book cover and my sister created it with Microsoft Projects. She did a terrific job. She is also the creator for our website, Twinauthors.com. I have contributed mostly with the design and content. Check out our blogs, they compliment our books.

Media Reaction

Kindle - Five Stars

"This is a great book. It is well written, funny, and creative. I love the half human-half alien characters, the ship, and the complex story. The creation of an all woman world is really well done. The romance is great, too."

Webpage, Facebook, and Others

"Fantastic technology!"

"This book is a great sci-fi fantasy for animal lovers! Funny, too!"

"I love all the animals and all the great characters!"

"I love Robby's blog on Twinauthors.com. Her drawings and photos really help me visualize the Mariposa spaceship and all the gadgets!"

"The story is very imaginative!"

Followers and Subscribers:

106 Followers on Facebook

19 Subscribers to Website Twinauthors.com

Over 1,700 visitors to the website

1 Twitter follower

1 Goggle+ follower

PRESS RELEASE

---

February 20, 2017
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

THE LAUNCH OF A NEW EXCITING NOVEL "Y NOT," SHE MEOWED BY ROBBY S. WITT
Buy on Amazon or Twinauthors.com, and at Book Woman and Half Price Books on North Lamar in Austin, Texas.

"Y Not," She Meowed is the first book of a science fiction series written with strong women characters, and with humor and romance added in. It is a new universe run by women and full of interesting characters, technology and gadgets.

Enter a world where men have accidentally killed themselves off with a little help from a cat named Dele Moustache. The world is now a goddess-based society and Artemis, the protector of animals and women, is at the center. Even the fantastic technology is animal-based. Earth women join the District of PAW, or Peace for All Women, to make the seventh-all-female solar system member.

It is Dele Mustache's job to follow the wearer of the Artemis pendant through generation after generation. First, Luna Good finds the necklace, and then her granddaughter, Skye Good-Night inherits it. Skye follows her fa-ma, Elysium Good-Night, into the District of PAW's Warrior Women space forces. Unfortunately, Skye Good-Night is accused of murder (but never convicted), demoted, and sent to command a science spaceship dispatched to save animals and plants. The personnel on the ship, some alien and some human, all have animal attributes and unusual pets. For example, there is an alien woman from a cat planet that looks like a woman, but only she can see her cat-shadow. Or a woman who is has fire-fly attributes and has to wear mittens so as not to electrocute anyone. Captain Good-Night must clear her name and save the tri-horn horses on a dying planet, but strange things keep happening, including murder. In every case, the humans think they have saved the day, but instead, it is the animals that do every time.

The author, Robby S. Witt, has degrees in Anthropology, Medical Technology, and Photography, and has now added writing to her many achievements. Witt has lived in several great cities like Austin, Texas, and Seattle, Washington, while pursuing her career of saving lives as a Medical Technologist. She has seven magnificent animals - four cats and three dogs. Her imagination and humor are fueled by the every-day things in her life. She has a unique perspective that makes great writing!

CONTACT: Diane Poteet, Agent
Email: drpoteet12@gmail.com
Website: Twinauthors.com (blog compliments book)

Excerpts

Great New Technology

Without waiting for a reply, Honor aimed and pulled the trigger on her Amplifier Blaster at the three Northern Cardinals in the Mountain Cedar tree that was approximately one hundred yards outside the closed window of their hotel room. Everyone had stopped talking. Collectively, they watched the invention. Nothing happen. "Is that it, Professor Bee? Ha!" said Cam. She slapped her thigh. Honor let go of the trigger. Then, she flipped a toggle on the side of it. Suddenly, the room was filled with rich, metallic chirping - What-cheer, cheer, cheer, purty-purty-purty-purty, sweet-sweet-sweet-sweet."

* * * *

In the middle of the room, a big light fixture hung from the ceiling that resembled a massive, giant sleeping sea anemone with multiple hanging lifeless tentacles. Suddenly, one arm twitched. Then some more. The tentacles or ceratas glowed a bright, pulsating orange. They wiggled and stretched as a pair of hands would. Without touching Skye, two dropped down forming the outline of a human. Two more joined the others to become arms with hands placed on the hips of the figure as if in contemplation. Up they all returned to the ceiling. A lone tentacle snaked down, and hovered over Skye's face. Large, human lips formed on the tip of it.

Unique Animals

"Good girl, Iris!" said Honor, "Meet Iris and Otis, they are Giant Sylvanian Skunk dogs, very rare. We found them when they were only six months old. They were trapped on top of a mountain on a planet near the Cin Naar System. I think the pirates thought they could skin them for their fur. I'm afraid they aren't call skunk dogs for nothing! If they are killed, they reek like the smell of a skunk. They have a special gland, called the 'Odoriferous Gland,' which allows them to produce different smells. It dissolves upon death and creates the sulfur smell. Their fur is useless.

Great Characters

Buddy was twelve-years senior to Skye. Their fate together had become sealed forever when Skye had saved Buddy from a hay-wired robotic arm during a ground combat exercise. From that point on, they had always watched out for each other's back. And, as Buddy spent more time with younger warrior woman, she knew that Skye possessed a remarkable mind that the rest of the galaxy had yet to find out about. All her life Buddy had had an underdeveloped perception herself. It could either produce a vague inkling of knowing something might be important or a momentary clear insight like the way she felt about Skye's intelligence. Either way, the space between her eyebrows would itch relentlessly, which made her frantically tap it.

Unusual Aliens

"So, back to the Ceratians, of course, there is Dooma, the ship's navigator. She and the two co-pilots, TuTu and Cubio, are all three Bloodles. That Dooma is a real character, just wait and see! The other Ceratians, which are higher on the social scale than Bloodles, are the Blue Dragonians. They are Lady Va, Ittuk, and Nibli. Lady Va is the head of the clan and the inventor of TAIL Technology. By the way, she will be there. Usually, she and Nibli are in their lab. Ittuk, Lady Va's sibling, will be on the bridge. Ittuk is always on the bridge, actually. She monitors the ship's, well, I don't know how else to say this except, the ship's life signs, including all the tentacles around the ship, inside and out. Nibli is Va's number one companion and assistant. She'll might be there with their children, not sure. Well, they all help with children. It's an integral part of their lifestyle. There are other Ceratians onboard, doing ship type jobs. They work alongside us. We need them to help us. The ship is so unique.

Romance

When the shuttle doors open, Buddy walked out. She had been inside getting the ship ready for take off. "Buddy! Where's the captain?" asked Kitty. Where the hell do you think you're going?" "She is ill, relapsed...I have to take her place," Buddy said solemnly. "Buddy!" said Kitty, "No, you can't go, it's too dangerous! I l..." "For howling at the moon! Babe, does that mean you'll miss me?" "Bollocks!" Kitty said as she climbed up the ramp and hugged Buddy. Buddy kissed her full on the mouth.

Detecting

"Let's get busy! We have to solve this murder before we run out of time to save the tri-horned horses!" said Skye. She clapped her hands together, which ended the meeting. "Kameko, please, wait a nano-minute," said Skye as she patted the table top that she leaned upon, "Yoemum Bunny, I want you to look into the personnel files of everyone on the ship. I am looking for possible motives. Coordinate your efforts with Chief Daimon. Chief, I want you to take another look into backgrounds." "Yes, ma'am," said Chief Daimon as she looked at Bunny.

Zero-G Games

While Skye Good-Night warmed-up with Buddy Beauceron inside the fish tank, Skye said to her old friend, "Great Goddess, Honor said Lupe wouldn't mind!" Lupe and Honor argued outside the Fish Tank in the Psychedelic Comet Tails' dugout. Each team had an area set aside for them not unlike a baseball dugout, but enclosed with the same material the fish tank was made of. A round portal-airlock with a technologically devised spiral rubber face opened and closed exponentially between no gravity and gravity. To access the tank from the outside, an ordinary ship's door operated on the opposite end of the dugout from the portal.

Notes

Robby Robinson (Robby S. Witt) and Diane Poteet (aka D.E. Poteet, author of One Bark for Murder) are identical twins sisters, born in Fort Worth, Texas.

They both graduated from Paschal High School in Fort Worth and from the University of Texas at Austin.

The photograph above is of Robby (left) and Diane (right) enjoying the butterfly gardens adjacent to the Texas State Fair grounds in Dallas.

“Y Not,” She Meowed

By Robby S. Witt

“Y Not,” She Meowed

By Robby S. Witt